Dr. Enrique Acosta-Gio, head of infection control at UNAM’s Dental School in Mexico City, showing the package dental patients have to purchase and give to all their dentists at the university, which tracks thousands of patients.

(DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Waterproof face masks being tried by Dr. Acosta-Gio at the Microbiology Lab of UNAM. (DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Dentists should be aware of swine flu, says top Mexican infection control expert

Dr. Enrique Acosta-Gio, head of infection control at UNAM’s Dental School in Mexico City, showing the package dental patients have to purchase and give to all their dentists at the university, which tracks thousands of patients.

(DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Waterproof face masks being tried by Dr. Acosta-Gio at the Microbiology Lab of UNAM. (DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Dentists should be aware of swine flu, says top Mexican infection control expert

Dr. Enrique Acosta-Gio, head of infection control at UNAM’s Dental School in Mexico City, showing the package dental patients have to purchase and give to all their dentists at the university, which tracks thousands of patients.

(DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Waterproof face masks being tried by Dr. Acosta-Gio at the Microbiology Lab of UNAM. (DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Dentists should be aware of swine flu, says top Mexican infection control expert

Dr. Enrique Acosta-Gio, head of infection control at UNAM’s Dental School in Mexico City, showing the package dental patients have to purchase and give to all their dentists at the university, which tracks thousands of patients.

(DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Waterproof face masks being tried by Dr. Acosta-Gio at the Microbiology Lab of UNAM. (DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Dentists should be aware of swine flu, says top Mexican infection control expert

Dr. Enrique Acosta-Gio, head of infection control at UNAM’s Dental School in Mexico City, showing the package dental patients have to purchase and give to all their dentists at the university, which tracks thousands of patients.

(DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Waterproof face masks being tried by Dr. Acosta-Gio at the Microbiology Lab of UNAM. (DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Dentists should be aware of swine flu, says top Mexican infection control expert

Dr. Enrique Acosta-Gio, head of infection control at UNAM’s Dental School in Mexico City, showing the package dental patients have to purchase and give to all their dentists at the university, which tracks thousands of patients.

(DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)

Waterproof face masks being tried by Dr. Acosta-Gio at the Microbiology Lab of UNAM. (DTI/Photo Jan Agostaro)