7th Dental-Facial Cosmetic Int’l Conference – part of Dubai Dental Week

By Dental Tribune MEA | CAPPmea

With the 21st Century being a time where science and trade go hand in hand, it is of utmost important to stay updated in our professional lives. With the internet opening doors to information to everyone, the dental patient has unrestricted access to global standards of dental care. The thought of success in Dentistry today is underlined by innovation and cutting edge technology as well as evidence-based scientific improvements. It is a fact that the dental industry has seen a shift from being trade to being evolved as a scientific trade. With this being said, 7th Dental Facial Cosmetic International Conference in Dubai has become the region’s trendsetter when it comes to showcasing the latest evidence based scientific cases through Centre for Advanced Professional Practices’ (CAPPmea) accredited Continuing Dental Education programs alongside modern day innovations and cutting edge technologies shown by the dental manufacturers.

In the 10th year Anniversary of CAPPmea, 7th DFCIC is proud to offer an expanded partnership with eminent strategic partners such Emirates Dental Society, Saudi Dental Society, Lebanon Dental Association as well as American Academy of Implant Dentistry, Inman Aligner Academy and the International College of Dentists who all hold their annual events as part of the Dubai Dental Week.

The organizers have once again planned an unparalleled Continuing Dental Education program for November 2015. Featuring some of the most prolific educators in the field of Dentistry, delegates will have a choice of a full-day Seminar on Alignment, Bonding, Bleaching and more (Inman Aligner Symposium - 12th November), two day Scientific Conference on the latest in Dental Facial Aesthetics (7th DFCIC joint event with AAID 13-14 November), half-day seminar (ICD)

A day out for the Dental Hygienist – 14 November 2015

By Dental Tribune MEA/CAPPmea

With an increase focus on the Dental Hygienist profession, clinics in the Middle East are becoming more and more aware of the importance of a complete dental team including the Dental Hygienist role. Following the previous two successive editions, 3rd Dental Hygienist Day will include hot topic presentations on oral care, prevention, evidence-based dentistry, oral prophylaxis, early childhood caries prevention, how diets affect oral health, periodontal disease, diabetes, magnification and ergonomics as well as probiotics from an oral and dental perspective. 9 International Speakers will give their best interpretations of what is best for the Dental Hygienist profession. The pre-Dental Hygienist Day hands-on course on 15th November will focus on Individually Trained Oral Prophylaxis – iTOP, where delegates will learn about Biofilm characteristics, failures in existing oral prophylaxis, technique and tools selection and much more. The full day hands-on course will be given by Dr. Franka Baranovic-Huber from Switzerland. A further Periodontal Instrumentation hands-on course (14 November) will be provided by Mary Rose Pincelli Boglione, Italy on miniaturized instruments in non-surgical periodontal therapy and further how polishing will brighten the smile.

The 3rd Dental Hygienist Day will further host a dedicated exhibition featuring sponsors EMS – Electro Medical Systems, Oral-B, Phillips Sonicare, Cowell, Hu-Friedy, Curaden and KEIRR.
